

Capt. Albert Gibbs.

News has been received of the death of Captain Albert Gibbs of Milwaukee, Wis., known in navigation circles along the Great Lakes, and whose youth was spent at North Bridport. He was the son of the late Seth and Anna Leach Gibbs, the former a native of Rulien, Colonel Jesse and others of the old-time Gibbs family. He was born in Rulien, Maine, in 1827, and about 1842 moved with his father and stepmother to North Bridport, they locating on a farm near the Academy. In the Civil War he served his country in the navy and as master of a vessel doing secret service down south for the government. The best direct information of the fortification in Charleston harbor was furnished by Captain Gibbs. He is survived by his wife and six daughters.

SAVED MY LIFE

—That's what a prominent druggist said of Scott's Emulsion a short time ago. As a rule we don't use or refer to testimonials in addressing the public, but the above remark and similar expressions are made so often in connection with Scott's Emulsion that they are worthy of occasional note. From infancy to old age Scott's Emulsion offers a reliable means of remedying improper and weak development, restoring lost flesh and vitality, and repairing waste. The action of Scott's Emulsion is no more of a secret than the composition of the Emulsion itself. What it does it does through nourishment—the kind of nourishment that cannot be obtained in ordinary food. No system is too weak or delicate to retain Scott's Emulsion and gather good from it.

We will send you a sample free. Be sure that this picture is the same as a label on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

SKIN TORTURES

Thousands of wretched people are miserable—driven almost mad by the terrible itching and burning sensation of Eczema and other skin diseases; many imagine they are suffering from bad blood, when in reality the blood has nothing to do with it. These awful tortures are caused by little germs that attack the skin externally, which can be rooted out in a hurry, leaving the skin clear, soft and healthy. This misery now cleared away as surely as the sun melts snow. Not merely temporary relief, but permanent improvement, and a permanent relief—no clearing of it at all.

THE D. D. D. PRESCRIPTION

Specific formula, put up in sealed bottles with authentic label, has proven to be the only certain cure for these diseases. Its record of cures is astonishing, amazing, almost miraculous. It is a liquid, used externally, non-greasy.

Cleared within one month. For a number of years my husband has been suffering with a terrible skin disease. He had been treated by the best skin specialists in the city, but they could not cure him. I was told by a friend of the D. D. D. treatment and began using it at once; the first week the itching ceased and in a month's time his skin was as clear as could be.

Yours truly,

Phantom Moose.

Hundreds of Men Have Tried to Kill Him in the Last 40 Years.

Every man who has lived in southern Montana for any length of time, especially if he enjoys the hunting stories told by the old timers, has heard of the "phantom moose," which makes his home at the head of Wise river and slays the hunters of all the hunters to day.

For 40 years or more this animal has held undisputed sway in the forest surrounding the head of Wise river, says the Anaconda Standard, and not one of the hundreds of hunters who have sworn to slay him has ever turned a hair through seeing the animal turn a hair through in his step, no matter how many shots might be fired at him, how near the distance or dead he was. Many a resident of Butte has journeyed into the head waters of the Wise river before the open season against moose was abolished in an effort to bring back the head of the old timer, adorned with the greatest shovels even worn by a monarch of the forest, back to town. All of these efforts have been failures, and still the old boy, who, because no one ever was able to place a fatal shot in his carcass, is known as the "phantom moose," roams the hills surrounding the head of Wise river, unafraid of man or any of the modern weapons he carries.

Just recently the hunting fever was developed in Butte, by the unnatural cold weather which prevailed, and around a steam register in a popular resort a crowd had gathered, and among other things the story of the famous moose of the head of the Wise river came up for discussion, and it was up to a man who has been a resident of Montana for over 40 years to tell the following story concerning the famous animal: "I have been in Montana," he said, "ever since the discovery of gold in Grasshopper Gulch in 1892 attracted the gold hunters to the southern part of this state. We called it Idaho at that time and the place we are now living in was known as a part of Oregon. As you all know I have been an indomitable fond of hunting; I would rather wallow through the snows of the mountains when the hunting season is open than eat even at the present time. In the early days I had the passion, and the years which have passed over my head, while they have not cooled my ardor, have sapped the strength from my limbs so that I can no longer follow a trail for a long distance as I did many years ago.

"When Bannack was first founded, when the gravel bars and rimrock along Grasshopper creek were turning out thousands of dollars every day, I saw an opportunity of making my livelihood with my rifle and I sook the diggings of the gold seekers and established a camp near the warm springs which are at the head of the Grasshopper. These days they call my camp Elkhorn springs so called because of the hundreds of elk horns which I left there and which came from the animals which I killed in order to help supply the miners of Bannack with fresh meat.

"It is needless to tell you of the hunts I had during those days. Elk and deer could be had for the shooting and it was seldom necessary to travel far from camp to find all that could be loaded on a pack train, and, in spite of the fact that we had nothing but old muzzle loading, single shot rifles as our weapons, the game could be killed easily.

"Moose were comparatively plentiful, and it was no unusual thing to find a cow and a bull living happily together in the marshes which surrounded one of the tributaries of the Wisdom river, as it was then called and which has since been changed to the Big Hole in honor of the big basin which surrounds its headwaters. Afterward, when it was learned that Lewis and Clark named the branch Wise river, the title was retained and, until today the stream is known by that name.

"But I am getting away from my story. I had scarcely made more than one or two hunts in the mountains which divide the head of the Grasshopper from the Wise river, until I found the track of the big bull moose, which made a track in the soft ground as big as an ordinary work ox of those days. From its actions I knew it was the biggest moose that ever went untrapped, and my ambition was to slay that animal, let it cost be as much toil as it may.

Day after day I tracked that animal through the forests and the marshes and willows which abound at the head of the river, but every time my efforts proved a failure, and though occasionally I could get a fleeting glimpse of the animal as he lunged through some thicket of brush, invariably he would get away, leaving nothing save a red hot trail to comfort me as a result of my long hunt.

One day when I least expected it, I found the big bull and his consort wallowing in a swamp less than a hundred yards away. Taking as good aim as possible, with my muzzle loading rifle, which, by the way, was loaded with a bullet packed with buckskin, I pulled the hair trigger, and when the smoke rolled away there was an animal floundering in the marsh and when I saw it with a cry of exultation, I found it was the cow, who at the instant I had pulled the trigger had interposed her bulk between me and my quarry. She gave up her life to save the one who had lorded it over her.

"I was bitterly disappointed. It is true I had no meat, but I wanted that big bull with the shovel horns, which were fully a foot across. But I dressed the piece of meat which fate insisted should be mine, and in a day or two it was gracing the tables of the miners of Bannack. When I was in the town that day, one of the storekeepers showed me a Henry rifle. It was the first development of the modern magazine gun to be brought to the diggings, and as it looked to have great possibilities, the matter of quick firing I bought it and paid five ounces of gold dust for it and 100 pounds of ammunition. Armed with this gun I felt morally certain that I could get the old moose which had evaded death by a scratch a few days before.

"Two days later I was at the swamp where I had killed the cow, hiding in willows less than 100 yards away, for the signs told me that the old bull had returned and was grieving around the offal, which was all that remained of his companion of many a wandering through the timber and swamps of the Wise river.

"For fully six hours I waited impatiently for the old bull to come to the trysting place, and when, my patience was almost gone, far in the distance came the plaintive cry of a moose calling for its mate. Nearer and nearer came the sound, and with its approach I trained my rifle upon a clump of bushes through which I felt morally certain that the bull would come as he approached the swamp. Presently I could hear the snapping of twigs and the gooseflesh fairly raced up and down my back an instant later as the biggest moose I had ever seen in my life pushed his way through the willows, for a moment, broadside on, less than 100 yards away. Only for a moment did he hesitate, and then stepped forward to where the skull of his mate was lying, and he licked it fondly with his tongue, as if he thought to bring life back into the senseless brain pan. Then it was that I realized I was there to shoot this monarch of the forest and I pulled the trigger.

"Intuition told me that something was wrong. All that I could see was a flash of fire and a roar of artillery. Consciousness faded away and I knew nothing for a space, which seemed an eternity. Finally I became conscious of an intense pain and when I opened my eyes there was darkness on every hand and through the trees above me a glimmering of star light told me that night had fallen upon the earth. My right arm was useless by my side and my head was torn and painful and dried blood upon it showed that I had been sorely hurt. With extreme difficulty I moved myself and found that my right arm was broken at the elbow, there was a lump under my right ear as big as an apple, my right eye was nearly torn from its socket and my gun had been through an explosion—it had burst from muzzle to breech. Every cartridge in the magazine had exploded at the time when I attempted to shoot the old moose, with disastrous results to myself.

"During the best I could, I made a fire out of pine needles, feeding it with dry branches near by until morning and then I weakly crawled back to my camp, ten miles away, where I was nursed back to strength and health by a companion. But surgery was primitive on those days and to this day I have a crooked arm as a result of my hunt after that moose.

"Other hunters who lived in the valley of the Grasshopper heard of my experience with the 'King Moose,' we called him then, and all tried to hunt him down and kill him. But ill luck befell all these hunters. One man found him and being in a thicket of brush in such close quarters that he could not retreat after one shot the old bull turned upon him and stamped him to death with his sharp hoofs, his body not being found until weeks afterward. Another man fell off a ledge of rock and broke a leg, lying out in the timber until he nearly died of hunger and thirst before he was found. Still another man was lost in the timber at the head of the river and there he wandered until his mind gave way and when he was found he was almost dead, and from that day until the day he died he babbled incessantly about a devil moose which continually haunted his footsteps through the forest.

"After the lapse of two or three years Bannack became practically deserted and there was no more need to hunt as in the early days and the story of the King Moose became an almost forgotten one. Later, however, fully 20 years from the time these tragedies befell the hunters, the old moose again stepped into the limelight. He was known by a peculiar spot of white on one of his shoulders, which had ever been in evidence from the time I first saw him.

"Hunter after hunter, who went into the mountains reported seeing his track and occasionally someone would get a shot at him as he lumbered through the marshes. But these shots were generally fleeting ones and no one could tell for a certainty whether or not they had taken effect. Once or twice a shot was fired pointblank at his carcass seemed to pass through it and tear up the dust on its opposite side without causing a tremor to the animal or making him move from his tracks and from this he became known as the phantom moose.

"Just two years ago I took my last hunt after the animal. I found where he had been wallowing in the swamp where he and I had met 40 years ago and there I resolved I would meet him again and have out the grudge which I had cherished so long against his big carcass. It was in the time of the harvest moon, when the nights were flooded with a brilliancy that was almost equal to the day. In the same thicket of willows where I had hidden many years ago I took my stand, this time with a 30-30 smokeless, as deadly a weapon as is known today. I did not have long to wait.

"Darkness had scarcely fallen and the moon had just assumed her brilliancy when far away I heard the plaintive cry of the moose calling for his mate. Nearer and nearer it came, until finally the noble animal stood not over 50 yards away from me, broadside in the moonlight. Carefully I took aim and fired, but still the moose stood there calling piteously.

"Time after time I fired until all my cartridges were gone, but still the moose stood unharmed and then after he was satisfied that he could not find his mate that night, he turned and reentered the willows, calling, calling, calling for the answer which never came and then I knew that the story told me by the hunters of the Wise river of a moose living there which was a phantom one, which could not be killed by man or beast, was true and that the noble old animal, still true to his lost mate, wandered the hills and swamps and meadows of the Wise river, ever looking for the mate which gave her life to save his own over 40 years ago."

Dixfield hunters last week who were successful are Fred Danforth one deer, Jack Tupper, two bears and one deer, Ernest Davenport, one, Ormond Gould, one.

Buildings Burned.

The buildings of Mrs. Thurza Crockett were burned down at about one o'clock on the morning of Nov. 16. Mrs. Crockett was alone and as she supposed was awakened by the crackling and arose only to find the fire well under way, at about the same time discovered by neighbors. Many were startled by the ringing of the bell.

The fire made such rapid progress that but little was saved. Fortunately the efforts of the people gathered saved other buildings which were very near.

This is a great loss to Mrs. Crockett, as she was well situated in a comfortable home. How true it is that "we know not what a day or an hour may bring forth." Insured for $400.00. Cause of fire unknown.

W. E. Lothrop is preparing to build a barn.

H. A. Proctor's blacksmith shop in the center of the village is vacant.

Mrs. Thurza Crockett is stopping at E. W. Chandler's since her buildings were burned.

Mrs. F. L. Wyman, from South Woodstock, spent a few days last week here recently.

Horatio Chandler and wife, have moved into the house he bought in the fall of C. W. Field.

Mrs. Winslow Bisbee was quite sick last week, but we are pleased to report her improving.

Frederick Farrar and daughter Luella, have been sick, but we are pleased to learn that both are improving.

Lois and Etta Hollis, from Sumner, were here a few days last week, with their grandmother, Mrs. Rosett Ryerson.

Charles M. Pulsifer, from Auburn, spent last week here with his brother, Geo. E. Pulsifer and family, returning last Monday.

G. A. Chandler has put a piece onto his barn for an ice house, and H. T. Heath and Arthur Bonney have each built an ice house.

Geo. Packard and family have moved into Mrs. Packard's father's, Henry Young's for the winter. Mr. Young is along in year and is poorly wintery.

Mrs. Nellie Small and daughter, Mrs. Helen Robertson, returned Nov. 15, from their visit to Farmington and Rumford Falls. Mrs. Robertson lost a valuable cap some where on the way.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Howe have gone to Rumford Falls, to their daughter's, Mrs. L. P. Merrill's, for an indefinite period. We were very sorry to hear that Mrs. Merrill was sick with rheumatic fever.

Rev. H. A. Abbott, one of Sumner's young men, now of Bridgewater, N. Y., has visited his mother, Mrs. K. P. Bowker, and other relatives. His many friends appreciated the opportunity to listen to a good sermon by him in the Universalist church last Sunday.

The W. R. C. dinner and sale Nov. 15, was a success socially and financially. The quilt was drawn by the name of Abbot.

The aprons and other articles on the fancy table sold readily. A table of lovely paper flowers made and presided over by Mrs. F. L. Wyman, of South Woodstock, a member of the camp, went in demand after all were sold.

The children enjoyed the fish pond. After partaking of a beautiful dinner several cakes were sold, some going out of town. Prayer was offered by Rev. H. A. Abbott, recitations by a number of little folks and a solo song by Madge Tuell, of West Paris. A farce by some older ones entitled "Taking the Train Tomorrow" afforded much amusement. All was interspersed with music. There was a large attendance considering the bad traveling. Proceeds $16.41. The inspectors meeting will be held Nov. 24.

Now is a good time to warn that boy of yours to keep off this ice. The way may do some good and it may not, but it is the season when the reports of drowning from skating on thin ice begin to come in.

GRAFTON.

With the Hunted.

There have been a large number of hunters in town and most of them have been very successful, some securing the two deer allotted them by law. Harry Hay and Fred Spear from Portland, who have been boarding at J. W. Chapman's, returned home, Wednesday, with one deer. Another party of five, Isaac Farrar, Fred Morrill, Leon Brown, Herbert McAllister and Hugh Murray from Portland and vicinity returned home Saturday, each with one deer. Pleasant Valley.

Mrs. Kate Adams is visiting her sister, Mrs. Louise Adams.

Melven Allen and Seth Hutchins have been in this place buying fur.

A party went to Grafton to hunt deer, and camped in the woods. Every thing went very pleasantly until one afternoon they were out wandering about until dark. One of the party got strayed away from the others and as he was passing a spruce tree, something sprang from another tree and came bouncing on to the ground beside him, giving a yell. It was so dark that he could not see to shoot at the animal which kept jumping from one side of him to the other. It followed most to the camp. After a time he thought of a deer that he had strung up out side and went out to see if it was all right, and to his surprise there stood the beast before him again making a scream loud enough to deafen the ears of the listener, he bounded into some bushes near by. The gentleman went back into the camp and after a few hours that they all retired for the night. At about the hour of midnight the animal came bounding into camp knocking over things and arousing the occupants and frightening the ladies of the party most into fits. They did not succeed in shooting the beast.

David Keniston is working for J. Bartlett.

Wilbur McAllister has gone to Massachusetts, to work.

Lucius McAllister has finished work at Norway, and is now at home.

DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

Breaks no Hearts, Excuses
no Crimes.

Dr. David Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY is not a disguised enemy of the human race; it cannot help, it does not harm. It is composed of vegetable ingredients and does not heat or inflame the blood, but cools and purifies it. In all cases of kidney troubles, liver complaints, constipation of the bowels, and the delicate ailments which afflict women, the action of Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY is beyond praise. Thousands of grateful people voluntarily testify to this, in letters to Dr. Kennedy, and with a warmth and fullness of words which mere business certificates never possess. It makes no drunkards, excites no crimes, breaks no hearts. In its coming there is hope, and in its wings there is healing. We challenge a trial and are confident of the result. Your druggist has it, ONE DOLLAR a bottle. BOTTLES IN THE SAME OR ADDRESS: Dr. David Kennedy, Readout, New York.

The Early Shopper.

She's begun her Christmas shopping;
From now on she'll stew and fret;
Every night she'll totter homeward
With her precious nerves upset;
Every morning she will bravely
Hurry forth again to shop,
And work slowly to the top;
She will price about a thousand
Things she doesn't wish to buy
And she'll paw goods over, leaving
Each department with a sign
That she has started good and early
So that when the rush occurs
At the people fight for trunks
She'll have purchased all of hers
Thus, dear lady, she explains it,
But it's very safe to bet
That up to the latest minute
She'll have something still to get.

Care of The Horse.

Man's Best Friend Should Have Perfect Treatment.
How does the owner of a horse treat it? Is its welfare looked after? Is it well cared for in hot weather or in the coldest days in winter? Do you see that your horse has plenty of food, water and protection? Do you scold, whip or abuse it because it failed to do your bidding, when, perhaps, the fault is more yours than the poor animal's? Have you ever stopped to consider the treatment that you give to your horse? Are you kind and gentle to it? The horse today is admitted by everyone to be one of the most intelligent of animals, in many cases using better judgment than its master. Why should you not treat your horse well? Is it not the animal that bears the heaviest burdens? It works hard each day in return for harsh treatment.
Did you ever consider that it demands as good care as you do? Yet that poor animal cannot tell how it feels. It is your faithful servant, always ready to do your bidding. It has no choice in what it would do. How often it is that the poor animal is driven hard and then, when allowed to rest, is left to stand in the hot sun? Recently a man worked his horse in the field until one of them laid down in the harness to rest. Yet you say, "it is only a horse." True enough, but suppose you were in its place, could not tell how hot and tired you were, but were driven on, and, if it became a little bit slow, were given a touch of the whip.
Look into the animal's eyes if you would see the sad expression, "No one cares for me; I am only a horse." Did you ever consider that the horse is the animal which has been the making of this country? Where would we be today without the horse? Would we stand as one of the grandest nations on the globe? Man furnishes the brains, horse the muscle. Go into the city, town or village on a cold January day and you will find many horses standing in the cold without blankets, while you will likely find the owners in doors, smoking and enjoying themselves by a comfortable fire, never considering the faithful animal that has made it possible for them to enjoy such comforts. Treat the horse the best; give him a warm blanket in cold weather; give him a good bed of straw to lie on; in summer, a shade to sleep under, with green grass for a bed. Nothing is too good for the horse; it has served you well.
Do you feed your horse well after working it hard all day? When you work hard all day you must eat. Your horse is the same; give him plenty of good food. He earns it; he deserves much better than he gets. A business man recently said: "My horses must have something to eat if I have to do without." In hot weather we enjoy a cool, fresh drink; doesn't your horse? See that your horse has plenty of good, fresh water. How often is it that we see several horses standing around a watering trough on a hot day waiting for their master to give them a drink? You can ask for a drink, or you can pump it, but the horse can do neither.
If you must put your horse in a pasture where there is no shade, make one; so that they have some protection from the hot sun. Your horse has feeling the same as any human; he is quick to know kindness. Horses soon learn who feed, water and pet them. They soon know who is kind. A horse will often tell you when he wishes something. Not long ago a man came out from a house to untie his horse; he looked at him and neighed, as much as to say, "I am hot, give me a drink," but the owner only untied him, climbed into his buggy and drove off. It has been said, "Tell me how a man treats his horses, and I will tell you how he treats his family."
How often is it that horse receives nothing but abuse? Those who scold and whip their horses always have trouble with them. There was a man who was always swearing, beating and scolding his horses. The man "got religion," and he said he believed the horses got religion, too. He had no more difficulty with them. What was the trouble with the horses? Have you ever noticed that when a horse gets frightened, if, instead of using your whip, you are quiet and talk kindly to it, what a difference there is? The horse takes courage and trusts you. Can you wonder that it becomes frightened when it cannot understand, or thinks it is danger?
As long as a horse has confidence in his master it is all right. Suppose sometime when you get frightened some one should begin on you with a whip; do you think that would help the matter? Much more may be done through kindness than by whipping.
The man who is kind and gentle to his horses usually has good horses. No man can afford to abuse his horse. How often we find a man who, after having used a horse until it is worn out, having sold it to some one who will not care for it? Keep that horse, give it the best place you have; that animal has served you well; it has been your mind ent. There is no doubt in my mind that each man owning a horse will some day have to give an account of his treatment of it. Because the horse is old and only in the way, some will trade him off, or turn him out on the public roads to get along as best he can. Are you treating old family horse that way? If so, stop and consider it has made you many a dollar. Care for it, protect it, and give it warm place in winter and a cool place in summer.

EAST OTISFIELD.

Gentlemen's Night.
There was an unusual large attendance at the meeting of Frederick Robie Grange Saturday, the 11th, evening. It was Gentlemen's night and a very interesting program was given consisting of:
Duet.....Choir
J. W. Edwards and P. C. Greenleaf, Master
George Greenleaf, accompanist.
Reading.....D. L. Root and J. E. Edwards
Duet.....C. O. Martin and F. E. Stone
A very pleasing farce was given entitled April Fool. The most impressive features of the program were the bananas, peanuts and candy served by the gentlemen. About 20 patrons from Oxford were present and helped time pass quickly in playing games, etc. All went home hoping the brothers would entertain often in Frederick Robie Grange.

Rev. H. H. Hathaway was called to town last week to attend the funeral of Herbert Knight.
Mrs. Annie Robinson is stopping with D. N. Thurlow during her vacation. Her school in Swampville closed the 10th.
A very successful term of school taught by Bertella Towne of Oxford closed in the Wardwell district the 10th.
Ernest L. and Francis Greenleaf, who are at work in Auburn, spent Sunday, the 12th, with their parents at Broadway farm.

The ladies of the Free Baptist church had a harvest supper at the house of M. C. Kemp last Thursday night. Although the traveling was bad a goodly number gathered and about ten dollars received. The ladies have undertaken to paint and carpet the church and are having supporters to get funds to help pay the bills. They earnestly desire the patronage of all as this is a worthy object. Any one who would like to add their mite, can address the president of the circle, Mrs. George Edwards of Oxford, R. F. D. 3. All contributions will be gladly received by her.

You Have Often Seen Women

with marked blueness or paleness of face, vitiated appetites and a craving for unwholesome food. These are signs of disordered liver, and the trouble often is due to liver impurities. Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy dispels liver disease. Husbands and fathers cannot afford to treat this matter lightly.

"The Way of the Transgressor is Hard."

An interesting letter from the Rev. C. Plummer, chaplain of the Maine State Prison, contains the following information that may be of interest.
Whole No. at present time in prison.....191
Number that have entered this year.....37
Over 50 yrs. of age.....3
Between 40 and 50.....3
Between 30 and 40.....3
Between 20 and 30.....32
Under 20 years of age.....32

There is no preacher, lawyer, or doctor in the prison at the present time. The good chaplain further urges, "Tell your boys and girls to be good, for goodness will not send them to prison." While giving these interesting and instructive figures would it be well to call all the attention of the young to the fact that disregard for the law of the Sabbath is one of the earliest and most subtle forms of lawlessness.
A conscience dulled by this lawlessness is the surest way to ruin. High thinking makes noble living. A right life and a clear conscience are priceless possessions. The above figures say eloquently "Begin right and then keep at it hard."

A General Invitation.

Our readers are requested to send us hunting stories.
Our readers are asked to send us articles of local interest.
With our readers send to the ADVERTISER or hand or tell to their local correspondent all the news.

Woolen Mittens.

The world is much better than it used to be. We have more necessities, more comforts and more luxuries than our ancestors dreamed of. Articles in every day use now were choice treasures 50 years ago. Before the Civil war oranges were luxuries in Maine, and when one of our dead and our fathers bought an orange and brought it home, the fruit was divided up among the entire family, and every one who received a section felt as if he were about to step over the threshold of Paradise, so great was the anticipated joy. And now most any of us feels able to buy six or even a dozen oranges and bring them home, even if there are no more than three or four in the family.
But what we have gained in some respects we lack in others. For instance, nobody can buy at the stores nowadays such nice and warm and beautiful "double" mittens as mother used to make. This assertion is a sweeping one, and several may feel inclined to doubt it, though in our opinion it is true. We can buy plenty of woolen mittens at the stores. Some of them are firm and thick and a seemingly good, but they lack some of the best features mittens ever had. Very few modern mittens have fringes about the wrist to keep the wind and snow away.
Now and then we can buy a fox-and-geese pair of mittens, or a pair that was knitted in saw-tooth style, but one must look long and look in vain for a pair of old "compass-work" mittens. The latter carried a thread of blue on one finger of one hand and a thread of white on the finger of the other hand, and as the shining needles flashed to and fro, the knitter would throw two blue threads and four black threads, and five blue threads, and put it down and take two, and drop three and gather six, and knit blue and knit white, and purl and take up, and drop some more, and keep on doing so, widen and narrow until the mitten took shape right under one's eyes, and kept growing and strengthening and getting into harness, and showing it was until it was finished and bound off and ready to be washed and worn and enjoyed.

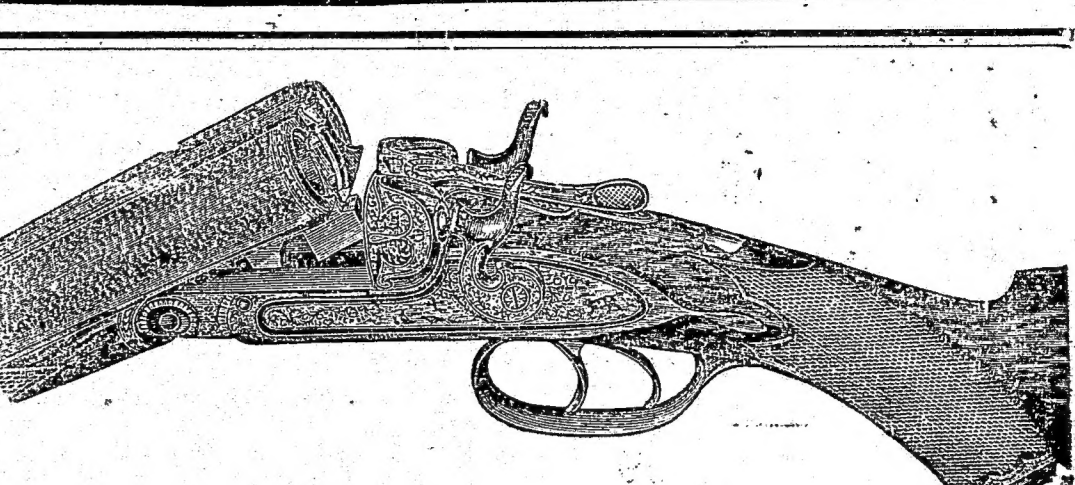

And there was the woolen knob away at the finishing off spot, clear out at the point of the mittens. Perhaps people will laugh and say there is no use in having such a knob anyhow, but that is all people know. Suppose you had given a girl a slide down the hill on the new sled, and suppose you were walking back, and that you had one arm around the girl and the hand of the other arm pull on the sled line. And suppose right at that time the girl should ask you for a chew of gum. Your gum was inside your mitten, of course, and so long as you had both hands busy, you couldn't get at it to give it to the girl. Couldn't, hey! That's all people know about the resources of an old-time boy. By taking the knob of the mitten that had the gum in it in your teeth you could suck the gum out in a jiffy and pass it to the girl with your mouth and tell her to help herself. And all this time you would be hugging the girl and hauling the sled and bragging about the boys you could kick, and doing a lot more things. In those days if a boy couldn't get a girl or half a dozen things at the same time he was counted "as no good. No; we shall never be able to find any of those nice old mittens again."

NORTH LOVELL.

Yula McAllister has been quite sick but is better now.
Nello Andrews brought home a fine deer Monday, Nov. 13.
Warren Johnson is laying the chimney in Will Allen's cottage.
Mattie Fox and daughter Cora, of Center Lovell, called on Mrs. Abbie McKean, Tuesday.
Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Garcelon and Mrs. G. M. Harriman, were guests at Porley McKean's recently.
Evel McAllister has been sick for several weeks, but is getting better fast, so she sits up part of the time.
It looks as if we would have telephone connections with other places soon, as the posts are being distributed.
Fred L. Harriman and L. E. McAllister spent a night at their camp near Speckled mountain last week, and returned with a nice deer antlers.
Arthur Jordan, wife and little daughter, Ruth, of South Paris, visited his mother, Mrs. Marshall Evans, recently. While here, Mr. Jordan shot a good sized deer.
Prescott McKean shot a bear Friday, Nov. 10. It was a fair sized animal and had a light brown fur coat, black and glossy. It was quite an exploit for the boy as the bear was very cross.

is increased or diminished by the area the paint will cover. Experience has proved that paint with the largest covering capacity is that made from
Portland Pure Lead
It hides the old color or the new wood better than other brands. It is made from the finest materials. The metallic lead is taken and corroded by the Old Dutch Process, which forms the dry, white powder. This is then mixed by special machinery with selected Pure Linseed Oil and ground to a fine texture in special stone mills.
The result is a beautiful, fine, white paste, such as pure materials and perfect methods only can produce. Forty years' experience in lead making have taught us how to make this whitest and greatest covering Lead.

OTISFIELD.

Pilgrims Progress.
Rev. C. L. Woodworth, of Lewiston, preached at Spurr's Corner, Sunday, Nov. 12, and the three following evenings gave readings from Bayan's "Pilgrims Progress." The scenes and characters of this great allegory were most skillfully and vividly portrayed by Mr. Woodworth who was listened to with close attention by the audience.

Most all the apples in this vicinity have been sold and shipped.

A public installation of the officers of the Crooked River lodge of Free Masons is held at Bolster's Mills, Thursday evening, Nov. 23.

Dr. Walter Cain, who has been engaged for a few years in mining in Nova Scotia, is stopping a few days at his old home at Spurr's Corner.

The farm formerly owned by the late J. W. Noble, but which has recently been purchased by John Thomas of Harrison, will be partly cleared of the timber this winter.

NORTH WOODSTOCK.

Canker Rash.

The school at Poplar school house closed last Tuesday, on account of canker rash. The children of Herbert Buck and Jack Dwinells are sick with it. The homes are quarantined.

Ernest Sessions is at work for R. C. Farrum.

Henry Billings is at work for H. A. Sessions.

Herman Billings shot a nice deer Thursday morning.

Addison Bryant spent Sunday, at his brother's, F. C. Bryant.

The apple packers who have been packing in this vicinity finished work Saturday.

Mrs. Walter Russ and two children, of Norway, returned to her home Wednesday. Walter Russ shot two deer while at C pond.

The annual meeting of the East Milton and East Woodstock telephone association is to be held at Poplar school house, November 29.

GREENWOOD.

Railroad Train Killed Sheep.

Friday morning the attention of the people was called by Cookson, engineer of the Pilot, while between the underpass and Willis' mill. It was soon learned that a flock of nice sheep, belonging to E. W. Penley had been run into by a train, some time during the night. About sixteen were killed instantly and five seriously wounded. This accident took place by the underpass in front of Al. Tubbs' house. Before noon the track was cleared of the mangled bodies, the wounded sheep killed, and all were buried.

Come home for Thanksgiving.

Alice Morey is at work for Francis Cole.

Rodney Verrill is at work for Frank Ring.

Alger Millett is at home helping his father.

There will be a dance at the City, Nov. 25.

Maud Swan is visiting her sister, Mrs. Ernest Curtis.

Ernest Curtis is at work in the woods on Spruce mountain, in Woodstock.

Walter Emmons sent a nice lot of chickens to Penley, of Auburn, one day last week.

Virginia Elderly will not be able to attend school again this term because of the trouble with her eyes.

Bert Morey and family, of Oxford, have moved onto their farm recently purchased in the upper part of the town.

Mrs. Fred Waterhouse was greeted Nov. 12, by a mother hen and eleven little chicks. They had just left their nest, which had been stolen away out in the woods. An unusual sight for this time of year.

BUCKFIELD.

Rawson-Spaunding.

At the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Carrie E. Spaulding, in Buckfield, on Wednesday, Nov. 15, occurred the marriage of Harley F. Rawson and Lila Sterling Spaulding. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. D. Atherton. Many relatives were present. Many fine presents were in evidence. The bride is the daughter of the late Cyrus C. Spaulding, and the groom is the son of J. A. Rawson, the druggist, and is a ball player of note.

The contemplated Montreal trip to fool the young people ended near the corn shop, and on their return to the depot for their Boston destination they found no one had taken them seriously. Hence the usual demonstration prevailed, and a goodly number boarded the train for East Hebron, scattering "seeds of kindness."

The sisters of the bride, Mrs. Stanley Bishop of Rumford Falls, Mrs. Ellis Russell of East Sumner, Mrs. A. E. Cole and Mrs. N. E. Morrill, with their husbands were in attendance. They were recipients of many fine presents.

Quite an amount of moving is being done.

Fred Davee is moving into Mrs. Betsy Hersey's rent.

E. B. Austin has got back in town from South Paris.

Sadie Thorn has sold her place and taken rent of R. C. Thomas.

Forty cents per dozen for eggs. Oh, my! Why not keep them over for a rise?

Fred Record, Bert Tilton and B. W. Allen went to the twin cities, Saturday, returning Monday.

Walter Ricker, who has worked for the barber, Wilson Conant, has gone to his home in Sabattis.

Stanley Benson is to occupy a rent over Morrill & Cole's store, it having been recently renovated.

Col. Bradbury may be seen out these crisp mornings taking a sun bath while others are humped up with the cold.

Chas. Buck got to West Buckfield with his father, and a Mr. Hayden from Livermore Falls occupies the Buck farm.

Mrs. Ellis Marston of Auburn has recently been in town, called here by reason of her mother's illness, Mrs. Wm. Irish.

O. E. Waite, who has been hostler for A. F. Warren in the past year, is to close his labors and go to work for Irish Bros. Thomas Tenney is taking his place in the stable.

Ernest Damon, who left town about a year and a half ago, moved to Norridgewood, has sold very advantageously and now has purchased the F. A. Taylor place in this village.

SOUTH WATERFORD.

Overseer in Industrial school.

Mrs. Sadie Randall is in Waterford for a visit. She is from the Lancaster Industrial School for girls, where she is employed as overseer in one of the cottages.

The high school has closed.

School at Mutiny closes next Friday.

Several deer have been shot in this section.

Mrs. Laura Shaw has returned from a visit to Portland.

The recent heavy fall of snow has nearly disappeared.

John Sanderson has been visiting in Waterford. He has now returned to New York.

Mrs. Clement Riggs is at a hospital for treatment, having had a tumor form in the shoulder.

Miranda Billings, who was recently stricken by a shock, died on Nov. 18. She was over 80 years of age.

Mrs. Jennie Kimball went to Bridgton last Thursday to attend a lecture, subject, Fun and Foolery, by Rev. Wm. Wood.

The L. and S. club hold the next meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shaw, Nov. 20. Program:

Mary Josephine Chaplin.

Mary Josephine Chaplin of Naples, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Chaplin, died Nov. 22, at her home.

She was almost an invalid nearly all her life, and was lovingly cared for by her parents, who miss her very much. She was 28 years old.

NORTH WATERFORD.

Their Wedding Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Giddings of Tamworth, N. H., are stopping at James Brown's on their wedding trip. Mrs. Giddings will be remembered as Sadie Webster, a niece of Mrs. Brown and attended a term of school here in 1893.

Walker Nason and wife have returned from a visit to Bingham.

Harry Brown and wife returned Saturday from a trip to Portland.

Mrs. Grace Elliott and daughter visited Mrs. Elliott's mother in Stoneham, Sunday.

John Rice and Phil Stone came from Norway, Tuesday. Mr. Rice's health is improving.

Alden Washburn, familiarly called Squire, hands us the following lines for publication.

Mrs. Bradford Nason is ill and her daughter, Mrs. Mattie Black has been called from Bridgton.

Mrs. Farrington is not as well. She seems to be failing daily. She is kindly cared for by Charles Berry and wife.

W. S. Perkins' piazza is nearing completion. There are about 500 feet in both piazzas and it is a great addition to the building.

Mrs. Moses Mosher has some handsome braided rugs of her own making. She has sold a number to go to Brooklyn, N. Y., for a good price. The last one made she says is the nicest of them all.

My Wish.

If any little word of mine

May make a life brighter;

If any little song of mine

May help me speak the little word,

And take my bit of singing

And drop it in some lonely vale,

To set the echoes ringing.
